REAL KINETIC

YOUR POTENTIAL REALIZED

Scenario: Massive Outage

Boss: What are we doing to resolve the issue?

You: Well, not much. Normally I would do "x" but I can't because those only work in dev environments. So I'm going to attempt to hack together some duct tape solution that I'll never use again. And I'm going to run it now in production without going through the code review process.

If you've done everything mentioned then why would you need other environments?

(Quick answer: If you need to change/test core infrastructure that impacts all users at all times)
